Carlotta & Henri Mom is offline! Like it!?

Help! Mom's smartphone is in the toilet!

Carlotta's and Henri's Mom is really cool. She always has the latest smartphone, knows everything about computers and digitizes and automatizes their apartment whenever she can. The twins' Dad is the total opposite: He is into board games and his cell phone is huge and has an antenna.

When Carlotta and Henri decide to play a joke on him, it happens: Mom's smartphone falls into the toilet and suddenly they are all offline. How can they survive? Olli, their Dad, has an idea...

Who Is Afraid Of The Little Wolf?

- Against prejudice and rumours
- Playing together is more fun

Little Wolf is sad.

Squirrel, Bunny, Fox and Bear just won't play with him – their mothers have taught them that wolves are dangerous. Only the Little Bee is not afraid and wants to play hide and seek. The other animals get curious and slowly start to play along.

A Trip To The Sea

- A joyful book about going on a trip
- Suitable for small kids
- Makes the cartrip seem shorter
- By famous illustrator Birgit Schössow who has also illustrated covers for »The New Yorker«

Holidays ahead! Time to pick up your friends and go to the sea! The little girl, Giraffe, Dog and Bear start early in the morning when it is still dark. A long trip with surprises lies ahead of them. An old street map, a car-sick giraffe and a flat tire. Time to stop somewhere overnight. As they wake up the next morning they realize: We have reached the sea. Nothing can stop them any more now!

The Bird Who Forgot His Song

- A book about searching for and finding love
- Ideal gift for lovers and just-married couples: All you need is love!
- Love can surpass language issues!

When the words don't come out right...

In spring, all the male birds chirp like crazy in order to find a partner. Only one bird cannot remember his song. »Wooff«, he says, and a dog shows up. »Oink!« and a pig comes scurrying along. »Moo« and a cow arrives. The animals wonder, what his right song might be, just when a loud trumpeting noise almost scares them away. To their surprise, it comes from a female bird who has tried in vain to find a friend. Could this be someone for our bird who forgot his song?

Smackers? Yuk!

- An every-day topic when growig up
- About learning to say no

»Give Aunt Lizzie a smacker!«

Help! Leo really does not want to give smackers or get kissed all the time. Neither by Aunt Lizzie, nor Uncle Fred, nor Grandma Elsie. But everyone just keeps on cuddling him anyways. On his Dad's birthday, Leo suddenly has an idea: Who will still want smackers when his mouth is smudged all over with a mix of chocolate, ketchup, pepper and milk? And, indeed, his family is suddenly very reluctant...

Taxi Ride With Victor

- With illustrations by Elsa Klever, the 2015 winner of the Austrian Children's Book Award

- Full English and Italian sample translation available

Victor is the nicest, best and most experienced taxi driver you can imagine.

But one day, he starts to feel very bored and begins to play tricks on his customers: The elderly lady ends up at a fun fair instead of at the hairdresser, a child is dropped off at the library instead of the fun fair, and the librarian never reaches the library as planned but pays an unintended visit to the dentist.

But what's happening now? All of Victor's customers end up having lots of fun and being grateful for the surprise. Victor understands that he has no talent at playing jokes on people – and stays the nicest, best and most experienced taxi driver you can imagine.

The Man Who Wanted To Be A Flower

- Don't just dream, dare to do it!
- An imaginary trip without borders
- By our successful trio Anja Tuckermann, Mehrdad Zaeri and Uli Krappen (shortlisted for the German Youth Literature Prize with Nusret And The Cow)

A man starts to dream:

He is not any more a man going to work every day but he turns into a flower. First he is a dandelion swinging in the wind. Then, he turns into a red poppy with petals soft like silk. Finally, he is a blue flower up on a hill where no other flowers are. He wonders how it would be to be a woman wearing the most colourful dresses...

In the end, he decides to be a man again and dresses up as a flower meadow for carnival – and a woman dressed as a beautiful red tulip joins him...

The Secret Of The Yellow Wallpaper

- A novel about a family secret, friendship and overcoming peer pressure
- By our successful duo Andrea Schomburg and Dorothee Mahnkopf

Two girls uncovering a family secret

Aunt Elizabeth and her best friend Ina are going on a long trip around the world. That's why Emilia, her parents and her little sister Henriette take over Aunt Elizabeth's house. While renovating the rooms, the two sisters find a diary – it is Aunt Elizabeth's diary! Emilia and her sister find out that the two elderly ladies have been hiding a secret: Aunt Elizabeth had denied Ina back in the days when they were schoolgirls out of peer pressure as Ina was bullied by everyone else due to her shabby clothes. Only after Ina ends up in a dangerous situation, Elizabeth helps her and saves her life.

Back at school, a new boy joins Emilia's class. No one likes him and he really seems to be aggressive. Can Emilia do anything?

When We Were Orphans

- When imagination takes over
- About siblings sticking together

Like every summer, also this year Liv, Carlotta and Stine spend the holidays in the moorlands. Their parents are excited about planning a hiking tour in the swamps but the girls decide to stay at the holiday flat. In the course of the day, the girls start to worry. What, if their parents won't come back? What, if they become bog bodies? Slowly, the girls talk themselves more and more into the illusion of becoming real orphans. They make a plan of how to survive on their own!

Pogo And The Cop

- About friendship and tolerance
- Prejudice can be overcome!

When the son of a punk and the daughter of a police officer meet

Pogo has a tough life. His parents are punks, real punks! That means he gets into trouble whenever he gets good grades, when he doesn't turn up the volume like crazy while listening to music or when he makes an attempt to clean up his room. One day, a new girl moves in the house next door with her father, a police officer. Vanessa is overly correct, always dressed in a police uniform and worse than that, she starts to follow Pogo around and to ticket him for every little thing. What a strange girl! But as Pogo's bike gets stolen, Vanessa suddenly decides to help him and they even spend a scary night together trying to track down the culprit. Will they manage?
